TO TACK AMENDMENTS TO FARM RELIEF BILL

DEBENTURE PLAN OR NEW TARIFF BOUNTY SCHEME

SENATE AGRICULTURE COMMITTEE CONTINUES FIGHT ON DEBENTURE PLAN

HOUSE MAKES ADMINISTRATION FARM BILL THE UNFINISHED BUSINESS

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, April 17.—The house met today to make its administration farm bill the unfinished business and the senate was in recess while its agriculture committee continued a fight over the far-reaching debenture plan.

Publicly disappointed at President Hoover's farm views expressed in his message, some republican members of the senate committee were reported to be preparing to tack on the debenture or tariff bounty scheme as an amendment to the administration measure.

They said Mr. Hoover had not mentioned the plan in his message, that two of the experts of the agriculture department have testified it was successful in Germany and Norway, and that the expected repudiation of the plan from Secretary of Agriculture Hyde has failed to materialize.

Chairman McNary frankly expressed the opinion the committee was favorable to the plan and would report the administration bill with it included. He expected a vote in the committee before tonight.

If the debenture plan is added to the bill by the senate committee, a serious fight is certain to develop. This plan would provide that farmers get a bounty from wheat exported; that this bounty be paid in the form of negotiable certificates to be redeemed by the treasury in payment of tariff duties on imported products. The idea is to make the tariff directly effective for the benefit of the farm.

The plan was advanced by Senator Caraway, democrat, Arkansas, but little attention was paid it during the recent hearings. Later republicans indicated Mr. Hoover might stand for the plan and a subcommittee was appointed to consult him. They came away from the White House with the understanding Mr. Hoover had not looked into the plan.

Many of the less enthusiastic farm leaders doubt if Mr. Hoover would sign such a bill, but they point out the record as it now stands indicates no administration opposition.

Such republicans and Hoover supporters as Brookhart of Iowa, Norbeck of South Dakota and Borah of Idaho were inclined to favor the plan along with the remainder of the republican farm bill, including Capper, Howell, Norris, Frazier, Nye, LaFollette, Blaine, McMaster and Johnson. McNary is willing to go along with them also.

As matters stand, this group, with the aid of the democrats can swing the whole senate.

The house is having no traffic with the debenture plan. Its $500,000,000 co-operative marketing bill will be made the unfinished business by Chairman Haugen of the agriculture committee who is prepared to demand its enactment without change. This measure is known to have presidential support.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday are to be allotted to general house debate and amendments will be taken up next Monday with a view to passing the bill before the end of next week.

With many troubles besides the farm problem on their hands, senate leaders are in no hurry. They will meet tomorrow to make the farm bill the unfinished business and then adjourn until Monday.

Other senate business includes the investigation of the right of Secretary of Treasury Mellon to hold a cabinet position, which investigation begins in the judiciary committee today; the presidential recommendation for suspension of the national origins provision of the immigration act, which will be strenuously fought by Senator Reed, republican, Pennsylvania, and some other republican leaders, and the clamor of the democrats for action on Wall Street speculations.

House Passes 3 Bills Drawing State Dry Laws More Tightly About Any Offenders

INSPIRED, NO DOUBT, BY FEDERAL JONES MEASURE

ONE MAKES IT MISDEMEANOR TO DEAL WITH LIQUOR HAVING POISON DENATURANTS

HOUSE THROWN INTO UPROAR DURING NOISY DEBATE ON THE LAW

By HECTOR PERRIER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

St. Paul, April 17.—Inspired, no doubt, by the federal Jones "five and ten" law, the Minnesota house, late Tuesday, in one of the most boisterous meetings of the present session, passed three bills designed to draw the state prohibition laws more tightly about offenders.

One of the bills, already passed by the senate and therefore ready for the signature or veto of the governor, would make it a misdemeanor to give or to sell liquor which contained poisonous denaturants.

The house was thrown into an uproar during the noisy debate on this measure when Rep. Charles Munn, Hennepin county, said that he understood the federal government was "poisoning the alcohol" now, and if we, by this bill, can make it stop that malicious practice, I'm for it.

"It is a great bill," Munn continued, "for it will give the drinking man a better grade of whiskey than he has had for years."

Other representatives whose speeches were made in a similar vein were:

Rep. Joseph Masek, Ramsey county, who asked if the bill "would insure a better grade of booze for the members of the legislature?"

Rep. H. P. Christensen, Rochester, who explained the difference between good and bad liquor as follows: "If you drink liquor and it does not kill you it is good, but if it does kill you it is bad."

Others including Rep. J. J. McDonough, St. Paul, Ray J. Quinn, St. Cloud, and Mark Nolan, Gilbert, made serious attacks on the bill. At the end of the discussion, however, the vote was 107 "aye" and 5 "no."

The other bills, which still must be acted upon by the senate would increase the fines and jail sentences for conviction of maintaining a nuisance or transporting liquor to as high as $2,000 and two years on "repeaters" and make it a misdemeanor for a minor to possess liquor.

Other developments in the legislature included:

House and senate compromise committee remained deadlocked over the education appropriation bill. The senate has approved an appropriation of approximately $22,500,000 while the house bill is $2,000,000 less.

The senate sidetracked a resolution by Sen. Charles Hauser which would have instructed the attorney general to collect $872,000 from mining companies for delay in paying their occupational taxes, by referring the bill to the judiciary committee.

An expected attempt to have the Dunn cigarette bill made a special order in the senate was postponed and it was feared that the measure was doomed for the present.

The senate game and fish committee virtually killed the Payne "one buck" bill which would have permitted shooting of male deer only in 1929 and 1930. At present the season in even-numbered years is open on all deer.

St. Paul, April 17.—A legislative bill to scale down the per capita tax limit of iron range municipalities from $100 to $70 over a four-year period today became law with the signature of Governor Theodore Christianson.

A related bill, also signed by the governor, prohibits municipalities from issuing warrants when there are no funds in their treasuries but authorizes certificates of indebtedness up to 50 per cent of anticipated tax revenues.

A third bill designed to stop chicken stealing, also was signed by the governor. It fixes 45 days' imprisonment as the minimum sentence for theft of domestic animals or fowls.

CORONER'S JURY, CHICAGO, INVESTIGATES DEATH OF GEORGE LUX

56 PARENTS ARE ARRESTED ON CHARGES OF LAX DISCIPLINE

Chicago, April 17.—(UP)—An unofficial verdict of parental neglect in the coroner's jury investigation of the death of George Lux, a grammar school drinking party accident was linked today with the arrest of 56 parents on charges of lax discipline of their children.

Twenty-three parents were fined and two who refused to pay were committed to the Bridewell.

The arrests followed the order of William L. Bodine, superintendent of compulsory education. Bodine directed his staff of 124 truant officers to make an extensive investigation of alleged speakeasies in the vicinity of public schools and to report all cases of indifferent parents.

The action was prompted by testimony of several witnesses to the death of George Lux, who was killed in an automobile accident Sunday morning after a night of dancing and drinking with a party of grammar and high school girls.

A coroner's jury of notable educators listened to the "gin codes" propounded by two young school girl members of the party. Among the frank statements which the jury heard were:

"There always is 'booze' at the parties I attend."

"We danced and drank highballs 'till 2 o'clock in the morning and we all had a chance at the bottles."

"Nowadays you have to take a bottle when you go visiting."

"I carry my own key, my parents don't know when I get in."

The jurors voiced opinions that parental indifference was responsible for the situation which ended in the death of young Lux.

The message accused the plant management of violating agreements that concluded a strike here when a union was organized and both sides had agreed to arbitrate further disputes.

Judge W. A. Cant deferred sentence to April 22 and continued Monitor's bond at $10,000. Monitor faces a possible five year prison sentence and a $10,000 fine under the Jones law.

CLAIMS 2 LIVES, SINKS FIVE SHIPS NEAR NEW YORK

AT ATLANTIC CITY WIND REACHED VELOCITY OF 78 MILES AN HOUR

SEVERAL INCHES OF SNOW FELL AROUND NEW YORK-PENN-SYLVANIA LINE

New York, April 17.—(UP)—A severe northeaster, which cut across the north Atlantic states and claimed two lives, was subsiding today.

It caused damage along the New Jersey coast, delayed liners, swelled rivers and was responsible for the sinking of five ships in or near New York harbor.

At Atlantic City the wind reached 78 miles an hour but, strangely enough, that section escaped with the slightest damage.

The storms reached as far south as Norfolk, Va.

The body of a man was washed ashore at Point Pleasant, N. J. He was believed to have been a sailor. Another man was killed at Stamford, Conn.

Several inches of snow fell around the New York-Pennsylvania line.

The New York harbor had an unusually high tide of 7.6 feet. The worst damage done to shipping here was the sinking of the oil barge Fred E. Hasler off Staten Island. The crew escaped.

The Teddy Burke, another barge, went down without loss of life when she broke from her moorings at New Brighton, Staten Island.

The third vessel to be lost was the Perth Amboy III, which was towing two barges when the cable snapped and the tugboat was caught in a trough of the sea. The crew was rescued off Staten Island and the tug Tisdale, with a cargo of molasses, went down off Robbins Reef.

The White Star liner Majestic and the French liner Ile De France could not make port yesterday because of the gale and were to dock today.

All along the New Jersey coast there were reports of parts of houses being carried to sea, boardwalks torn up, and orchards damaged by the high wind.

There was sleet and snow in the Shenandoah valley of Virginia and snow fell in the mountains west of Cumberland, Md.

New York, April 17.—A terrific storm which lashed the entire eastern seaboard today left flood threats, snow blocked roads, and thousands of dollars damage to shipping in its wake.

Two deaths were attributed directly to the storm. The body of a sailor was washed ashore in New Jersey and a man was killed in Connecticut.

Rivers were rising today in Maine, Vermont and New Hampshire as a result of the combined snow and rain storm which swept across the New England states. Roads in western Massachusetts were blocked and snow plows were in use in parts of Pennsylvania.

The snow extended as far south as Maryland and Virginia.

Shipping suffered greatly. Five craft were sunk in New York harbor as a gale of 78 miles an hour velocity battered the shore line. The tugs Tisdale, Fred E. Hasler, Teddy Burke and Perth Amboy and the barge Montana, most of them carrying valuable cargo, were sunk. All crews were rescued.

A 70 mile gale struck Cape Cod and two craft went on the rocks, the bark Emile and the schooner Bright. The steamer West Hika was in danger with a broken rudder but was saved.

Trans-Atlantic steamers were delayed in arriving, a number being held at quarantine off New York harbor. Several coast-wise vessels were held in harbor at Boston.

The fruit crop in south central Pennsylvania suffered as result of the low temperatures and snow and sleet storms.

Through most of the region the storm had abated today and moderation had started. The forecast for the metropolitan area predicted snow or showers during the day with a clearing tonight.

CLAIMS 2 LIVES, SINKS FIVE SHIPS NEAR NEW YORK

AT ATLANTIC CITY WIND REACHED VELOCITY OF 78 MILES AN HOUR

SEVERAL INCHES OF SNOW FELL AROUND NEW YORK-PENNSYLVANIA LINE

New York, April 17.—(U.P.)—A severe northeaster, which cut across the north Atlantic states and claimed two lives, was subsiding today.

It caused damage along the New Jersey coast, delayed liners, swelled rivers and was responsible for the sinking of five ships in or near New York harbor.

At Atlantic City the wind reached 78 miles an hour but, strangely enough, that section escaped with the slightest damage.

The storms reached as far south as Norfolk, Va.

The body of a man was washed ashore at Point Pleasant, N. J. He was believed to have been a sailor. Another man was killed at Stamford, Conn.

Several inches of snow fell around the New York-Pennsylvania line.

The New York harbor had an unusually high tide of 7.6 feet. The worst damage done to shipping here was the sinking of the oil barge Fred E. Hasler off Staten Island. The crew escaped.

The Teddy Burke, another barge, went down without loss of life when she broke from her moorings at New Brighton, Staten Island.

The third vessel to be lost was the Perth Amboy III, which was towing two barges when the cable snapped and the tugboat was caught in a trough of the sea. The crew was rescued off Staten Island and the tug Tisdale, with a cargo of molasses, went down off Robbins Reef.

The White Star liner Majestic and the French liner Ile De France could not make port yesterday because of the gale and were to dock today.

All along the New Jersey coast there were reports of parts of houses being carried to sea, boardwalks torn up, and orchards damaged by the high wind.

There was sleet and snow in the Shenandoah valley of Virginia and snow fell in the mountains west of Cumberland, Md.

New York, April 17.—A terrific storm which lashed the entire eastern seaboard today left flood threats, snow blocked roads, and thousands of dollars damage to shipping in its wake.

Two deaths were attributed directly to the storm. The body of a sailor was washed ashore in New Jersey and a man was killed in Connecticut.

Rivers were rising today in Maine, Vermont and New Hampshire as a result of the combined snow and rain storm which swept across the New England states. Roads in western Massachusetts were blocked and snow plows were in use in parts of Pennsylvania.

The snow extended as far south as Maryland and Virginia.

Shipping suffered greatly. Five craft were sunk in New York harbor as a gale of 78 miles an hour velocity battered the shore line. The tugs Tisdale, Fred E. Hasler, Teddy Burke and Perth Amboy and the barge Montana, most of them carrying valuable cargo, were sunk. All crews were rescued.

A 70 mile gale struck Cape Cod and two craft went on the rocks, the bark Emile and the schooner Bright. The steamer West Hika was in danger with a broken rudder but was saved.

Trans-Atlantic steamers were delayed in arriving, a number being held at quarantine off New York harbor. Several coast-wise vessels were held in harbor at Boston.

The fruit crop in south central Pennsylvania suffered as result of the low temperatures and snow and sleet storms.

Through most of the region the storm had abated today and moderation had started. The forecast for the metropolitan area predicted snow or showers during the day with a clearing tonight.

NOT for the speculator

SAVING in a bank account doesn't interest the speculator afflicted with Get-rich-quick Fever.

ber company left for Minneapolis this afternoon to spend Sunday with his family.

Rev. William Walker, the new pastor of the First Baptist church has arrived in the city and will officiate tomorrow for the first time.

A. F. Kenyon, the front street clothing, left for Minneapolis this afternoon on business.

Miss Atherton left this afternoon for the Twin Cities.

Owing to the fact that Messrs.
Linnemann Brothers do not intend to open up again in business for the present, the goods which were on the way from New York when the fire destroyed their store, have been purchased by McCarthy & Donahue.

The management of the Brainerd
Lumber company mill in this city hopes that the mill will be running full blast before the first of the month, although they cannot state positively the date. The ice is slow in moving out of the lakes. The prospects now are that the mill will have a good season. A large number of the old men are returning and are making arrangements for the summer's work.

F. H. Hilliard who has been visiting with his brother-in-law, Dr.
Kounds returned to Crookston last night. The doctor is feeling some better today.

Whale Not a Fish

A whale is a large aquatic mammal and not a fish. Though it lives in the sea and has the appearance of a fish, it is a warm-blooded animal, breathing air and not under water. Its skin is smooth and hairless, and it has a nostril opening far back in the head.
The young ones are born alive and suckle like the young of other mammals. Whales may have been land animals at one time, but their adaptation to life in the water must date from the far distant ages.

A Female Peacock?

In popular usage the word "peacock" is applied to any individual bird of the peafowl family, whether it is male or female. It is more accurate to speak of the birds in general as peafowls, and call the males peacocks and the females peahens when it is

Screening a Town

A whole German town was recently made invisible from the air by means of a smoke cloud which rose from vessels containing a secret chemical compound. The clouds rose 300 feet and curtained an area of 500 square yards in six seconds.

Health and Purity

The duty of physical health and the duty of spiritual purity and loftiness are not two duties; they are two parts of one duty—which is living the completest life which it is possible for man to live.—Phillips Brooks.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 17, 1929

10,000 LAKES OF MINNESOTA BROADCAST

THE Ten Thousand Lakes-Greater Minnesota Association of St. Paul will give its first radio program over WCCO, Minneapolis, from 6 p. m. to 7 p. m. tonight and the association would like to check up on the program.

If you like the talks, etc., what improvements you wish to suggest, how the reception was, all these points will be gratefully received and made note of. In short, write the association at 1501-1503 University Avenue, St. Paul, your ideas, knocks, boosts that may occur to you or your friends.

Other programs, embracing different features but having the same objectives, will follow on April 24 and May on WCCO and on April 30 on KSTP, St. Paul's big station.

The lakes and farms association is pledged to devote one-half of its total income to advertising Minnesota as a land of opportunity for the farmer. Surely the importance of this is evident to every one. It will help every community. It will stimulate a demand and insure fair prices for good farms. It will bring more good farmers to Minnesota to build, to share taxes and to contribute generally to the progress and prosperity of the state.

There is no other organization to do this job. Everything that is done in this field must be done by this association since all other agencies which heretofore have dealt with the problem have gone out of existence, including even the State Immigration Department.

OLD-TIME LOGGING

DICK MENEFEY writing in the Vilas County, Wisconsin, News, brings back memories of the old logging days, so redolent of the early history of Brainerd when the town was on the fringe of the big timber.

"Being a lumberjack in the early days, ending some twenty-five years ago, was no weak man job. He must be a 'he man'; must be an adept at road making in the woods; must know all there was to know in the handling of a team, if he be a teamster; must know the scientific use of a saw or an ax; must know good from bad timber from a measured glance at the standing tree; must know how to load one of the huge logging sleighs and know how to properly pile up the logs in a huge pile upon the bank of some stream wherein the winter's cut was later to be transported down by water to market.

"He must know just how much of a flood head in the river was needed to move the timber in the least possible time; he must know the art of 'riding' a log while it was being floated without being 'spilled' in the icy waters of early spring time driving. He must therefore be classed as an ace in his profession—for logging in all its details in those days was a well defined profession. Different nowadays with the rail equipped, motorized logging outfits."

NOTED SPEAKER COMING

REV. IRA LANDRITH, D. D., L. L. D., who made such a good impression when he spoke at the Brainerd Chautauqua a few years ago, is to be one of the speakers at the Central Minnesota Christian Endeavor convention at the First Congregational church, and his meeting on Saturday evening at 8 o'clock is open to the public.

Few speakers in America have his commanding presence, his wealth of thought and expression, his combination of humor and human interest, and his vigorous and fearless messages.

The press praises Dr. Landrith as a man of fire, fun and feeling, and as a great statesman. His travels in America have won him hundreds of thousands of friends in every walk of life. Brainerd citizens have a rare opportunity in being able to hear him.

The Christian Endeavor convention of the Central District will be held at the First Congregational church April 20 and 21 and will bring to the city approximately 100 delegates.

YOUR COMMUNITY

If you were traveling in a foreign land, and saw our starry flag, you would be glad to feel that you belong to America, and that its long arm reaches out to protect your journeyings, says the Red Wing Eagle.

Whenever you hear the national anthem played, you feel a thrill of pride, that you have a share in this land of achievement. Fine sentiments there. They should be paralleled by a similarly ardent feeling for the community in which you live.

Your home town gives you daily bread, modern comforts, education for your children, cherished friendships. Love it; defend it from unfair criticism, and work for its welfare.

CHANGE POLLING PLACE HOURS

AFTER a lot of legislating, the Minnesota legislature has at length passed a bill changing hours at the polling places. The polls will now close at 8 p. m. instead of 9 p. m.

Indians' Last Stand

In 1695 the Indians made their last stand at Tidewater, now Fort Washington. In that year Col. John Washington, with a force of 1,500 Maryland and Virginia militia, met and defeated a horde of about 2,500 Indians. The defeat was so decisive that the Indians left this section of the country.

How far should a girl sacrifice herself to win the love of a man?

DAPHNE

By HAZEL LIVINGSTON

Author of "The Secret Studio"

In this intensely interesting serial the author has vividly described the love of two girls—step-sisters—for the same man. The gripping drama of their struggle, and the vivid description of the utterly different ways by which these girls tried to win him, make this the most thrilling romance you have read this year.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 17, 1929

10,000 LAKES OF MINNESOTA BROADCAST

THE Ten Thousand Lakes-Greater Minnesota Association of St. Paul will give its first radio program over WCCO, Minneapolis, from 6 p. m. to 7 p. m. tonight and the association would like to check up on the program.

If you like the talks, etc., what improvements you wish to suggest, how the reception was, all these points will be gratefully received and made note of. In short, write the association at 1501-1503 University Avenue, St. Paul, your ideas, knocks, boosts that may occur to you or your friends.

Other programs, embracing different features but having the same objectives, will follow on April 24 and May on WCCO and on April 30 on KSTP, St. Paul's big station.

The lakes and farms association is pledged to devote one-half of its total income to advertising Minnesota as a land of opportunity for the farmer. Surely the importance of this is evident to every one. It will help every community. It will stimulate a demand and insure fair prices for good farms. It will bring more good farmers to Minnesota to build, to share taxes and to contribute generally to the progress and prosperity of the state.

There is no other organization to do this job. Everything that is done in this field must be done by this association since all other agencies which heretofore have dealt with the problem have gone out of existence, including even the State Immigration Department.

OLD-TIME LOGGING

DICK MENEFFEE writing in the Vilas County, Wisconsin, News, brings back memories of the old logging days, so redolent of the early history of Brainerd when the town was on the fringe of the big timber.

"Being a lumberjack in the early days, ending some twenty-five years ago, was no weak man job. He must be a 'he man'; must be an adept at road making in the woods; must know all there was to know in the handling of a team, if he be a teamster; must know the scientific use of a saw or an ax; must know good from bad timber from a measured glance at the standing tree; must know how to load one of the huge logging sleighs and know how to properly pile up the logs in a huge pile upon the bank of some stream wherein the winter's cut was later to be transported down by water to market.

"He must know just how much of a flood head in the river was needed to move the timber in the least possible time; he must know the art of 'riding' a log while it was being floated without being 'spilled' in the icy waters of early spring time driving. He must therefore be classed as an ace in his profession—for logging in all its details in those days was a well defined profession. Different nowadays with the rail equipped, motorized logging outfits."

NOTED SPEAKER COMING

REV. IRA LANDRITH, D. D., L. L. D., who made such a good impression when he spoke at the Brainerd Chautauqua a few years ago, is to be one of the speakers at the Central Minnesota Christian Endeavor convention at the First Congregational church, and his meeting on Saturday evening at 8 o'clock is open to the public.

Few speakers in America have his commanding presence, his wealth of thought and expression, his combination of humor and human interest, and his vigorous and fearless messages.

The press praises Dr. Landrith as a man of fire, fun and feeling, and as a great statesman. His travels in America have won him hundreds of thousands of friends in every walk of life. Brainerd citizens have a rare opportunity in being able to hear him.

The Christian Endeavor convention of the Central District will be held at the First Congregational church April 20 and 21 and will bring to the city approximately 100 delegates.

YOUR COMMUNITY

If you were traveling in a foreign land, and saw our starry flag, you would be glad to feel that you belong to America, and that its long arm reaches out to protect your journeyings, says the Red Wing Eagle.

Whenever you hear the national anthem played, you feel a thrill of pride, that you have a share in this land of achievement. Fine sentiments there. They should be paralleled by a similarly ardent feeling for the community in which you live.

Your home town gives you daily bread, modern comforts, education for your children, cherished friendships. Love it; defend it from unfair criticism, and work for its welfare.

BIG LEAGUE PENNANT RACES OPENED HESITANTLY

RAIN AND COLD BARRED MUCH EASTERN PLAY

GROVER CLEVELAND ALEXAN-DER STARTS 19TH SEASON
ON MOUND

By FRANK GETTY
(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, April 17.—The major league pennant races of 1929 have opened somewhat hesitantly.

As was the case a year ago, rain and cold prevented eastern engagements.

Only in the west and middle west were the big league flag contenders able to set out on the long 154-game grind.

Fans had several things of interest to consider, nevertheless, from yesterday's play.

Starting his nineteenth season in the majors, Grover Cleveland Alexander of the St. Louis Cardinals proved himself once more invincible in beating the Cincinnati Reds on their home turf, 5 to 2.

Another feature of this game was furnished by "Chick" Hafey, St. Louis outfielder, who has adopted glasses as a cure for eye-trouble. He belted out the only home run of the National League.

Rogers Hornsby, around whom so much attention centers this season, failed to make a hit. That perhaps was not entirely his fault, since he was walked three times. The Pirates beat the Cubs before a capacity crowd at Chicago, 4 to 3.

The major league debut of at least one newcomer was crowned with success when Earl Averill, expensive Cleveland outfielder, hit a homer in the first inning against Detroit in a game which the Indians finally won in 11 innings, 5 to 4.

Before the current season opened, a number of experts picked the St. Louis Browns, formerly regular second division occupants, as possible pennant winners, and the Browns opened up with everything they had, winning, 3 to 1, from the Chicago White Sox.

Leading hitters on the opening day were: Fonseca, Indians, .600; Walker, Cincinnati, .667; Metzler, White Sox, .667; Traynor, Pirates, .750; and Cuyler, Cubs, .600.

The attendance was gratifying considering the weather, more than 100,000 fans turning out at four major league parks. Half of these attended the Cub-Pirate game in Chicago.

Watching the Scoreboard

(By United Press)

Yesterday's Hero—"Old Pete," Grover Cleveland Alexander, shown by the record books to be starting his 19th major league season, who pitched the St. Louis Cardinals to a 5 to 2 victory over the Cincinnati Reds in the opening game, allowing but five hits.

Pie Traynor, captain of the Pittsburgh Pirates, supposedly suffering with injuries which should have kept him on the bench, led the attack whereby the Corsairs carried off the initial victory over the Chicago Cubs before 50,000 fans, 4 to 3.

Sam Gray, star hurler of the St. Louis Browns, who are conceded by experts to have their first pennant chance in history, pitched Dan Howley's club to a 3 to 1 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

After a ninth inning rally which tied the score, the Cleveland Indians won out over the Detroit Tigers, 5 to 4, in the 11th inning. The winning run scored on Carl Lind's double.

Four other scheduled opening games were washed out by rain.

Old Companions

One's delight in an elderly bush overhanging the confused landscape of a hedgerow bank, as a more gladdening sight than the finest cistus or fuchsia spreading itself on the soft undulating turf, is an entirely unjustifiable preference to a nursery-gardener, or to any of those who are free from the weakness of any attachment that does not rest on a demonstrable superiority of qualities. And there is no better reason for preferring this elderly bush than that it stirs an early memory; that it is no novelty . . . speaking to me merely through my present sensibilities to form and color, but the long companion of my existence, that wave itself into my joys when joys are vivid.—From "The Mill on the Floss," by George Eliot.

Just a Detail

In battle the duke of Wellington overlooked nothing. Baron von Neu-mann of the Austrian embassy at London in 1840 tells in his recently published diary of an account given by the Iron Duke of the Battle of Vittoria:

That "after the whole of the French infantry had been routed, all the artillery, consisting of 300 pieces of cannon, and all the baggage had been abandoned, the English army considered the battle ended, when the duke stopped the forward movement of the troops and said: 'The battle is not yet won. There is a corps of 10,000 cavalry still intact,' and they thereupon disposed of them."

Legion of Honor

The Legion d'Honneur in France is an order of merit, both military and civil. As at present organized, it consists of five classes—chevaliers, officers, commanders, grand officers and grand crosses. The resident of the republic is grand master. In ordinary circumstances 20 years of military, naval or civil service is necessary for eligibility to the rank by chevalier, and promotions can only be made after definite service in a lower rank. Extraordinary service admits to any rank. The word "chevalier" means "knight."

Spellbound

Ten-year-old Mary had won a scholarship, and was telling her mother about the papers.

The subject for essay had been, "How I spend my Saturday morning," and after discussing on minding the baby, helping mother wash up, and so on, Mary ended with the amazing statement, "and then I play a game of chess with my brother."

"Chess! But you can't play chess!" "I know, I wanted to put dominoes, but I couldn't spell it."

Utilizing the Heat of Passion

The Barn Boss—Was there much trouble on the line about the cold cars?

The Conductor—Not much. It seemed warm enough for 'em. Every one who spoke to me about it was het up over it.

Past Hurt

Mrs. Mettelinder was attending her first football game. "Oh, isn't it awful," she cried. "Why, they will kill the poor boy underneath." "Don't be silly, mother!" exclaimed her daughter. "He doesn't mind it—he's unconscious by this time."—Pathfinder.

Wave Speed Difference

Gives Strange Effects

Sound travels through the air at the rate of one mile in five seconds. Ether waves have a velocity a million times greater. This difference causes some strange effects.

Big Ben, London's famous clock, can be heard to strike four miles from Westminster. Owing to the difference between the speed of radio and air waves, in many parts of London it may be heard to strike 22 times when the 11 o'clock signal is being broadcast from Daventry—through a loud speaker and through the air. There is an interval of four and one-half seconds between each stroke of Big Ben.

At one mile, the first two strokes by radio would be heard before the first by sound waves, and after the first by radio two would arrive through the air. At four miles, five would be heard by radio before the first by sound waves, and the last by radio would be followed by five carried by air waves.

Heroics of Olden Days

Are No Longer Possible

Days when a brave woman could earn the applause of the country by yanking off her red petticoat and flagging a train just as it neared a broken rail are over, mostly because broken rails are rarer and red petticoats extinct. The New Jersey farmer who saved a train by waving a flag and a burlap bag, the other day, recalled those heroines of the past generation to mind, and being given to idle speculation, we tried to picture the situation if a modern woman should come across a broken rail. If she removed a garment (any garment) to use as a flag, with the probabilities against her finding one large enough to be seen, the chances favor a horrible wreck, because a really modest engineer could do no less than close his eye, and speed past. Engineers, no doubt, favor a return of the good old days, in the interest of safety.

To be eaten alive is the fate of many of our catalpa trees. Tremendous ravages by the catalpa sphinx—the caterpillars or larvae of one of our southern-bred hawk moths—have stripped their boughs of foliage and left them bare and unsightly, says Nature Magazine. Sometimes the trees die from these severe defoliations, and occasionally entire plantations have been destroyed.

SERVICE MOTOR

DOUBLES SCORE

ON NASH-FINCH

WIN SLUGFEST BY 14-7; WHIT-LOCK NICKED FOR 13 HITS BUT WINS

The Service Motor Co. diamondball team won a slugfest from the Nash-Finch Co. last night by a score of 14 to 7. Whitlock, pitching for the winners, was nipped for thirteen hits but fast fielding and tight pitching in the pinches kept the score down. Booth hurled for Nash-Finch and was touched for fifteen hits. He had ragged support which contributed to his downfall. In the first inning the Service Motor Co. denied the plate eleven times when they blasted out ten hits, including a home run by Aro. In this inning the Nash-Finch scored one run when Larson doubled and came home on Ladd's triple. Ladd was put out trying to stretch his hit into a home run.

In the second inning the Service

Motor Co. could not tally while the Nash-Finch added two more runs to their total. In the third inning the Service Motor was retired without a run. Nash-Finch Co. scored two more runs in this inning when Booth connected with one of the longest home runs that has been hit so far this year. In the fourth inning the Service Motor Co. scored three runs when the Nash-Finch defense faltered. Nash-Finch terminated the scoring in the fourth inning when they scored two runs on five hits.

Tonight the first place will be at stake in the city diamondball league when two undefeated teams meet. The Sinclair Oil Co. will clash with the Northern Pacific Ry. From past performances both teams display tremendous batting power and also have good defensive combinations.

L. A. Ericsson and F. W. Elden will be the arbiters for the game.

IT'S a strange thing but the champions in the pugilistic field are not always the money grabbers. Quite often the battlers who never have their brows creased with the weight of a tiara are the fellows who build up a bank roll which allows them to retire and live happily ever after.

Jack Dempsey, naturally, reaped the biggest harvest ever known in the cauliflower industry. Even after he lost the title, his services were in big demand and he garnered considerable wealth as a contender. In fact, if the Old Manassa Mauler decided to return to the wars as late as today, he could demand—and get—a fancy price for his signature on the dotted line—and he's been away from the throne room for quite a while.

There are many examples of fighters, who have never reached championship heights, yet, they have eased great stacks of coin through the windows of our leading banks.

Mickey Walker and Joe Dundee are modern examples of champions who are let considerable grass grow under their feet. Both these titlholders do not fight often and thus let much so-called easy money escape them.

Loughran, boss of the light-heavyweights who reaped a little as a heavy, but he's missed some big gates in defense of his crown.

Mandell, the lightweight titlholder, fights about once a year and seems satisfied to let a lot of contenders get the gravy.

The little fellows can be more or less eliminated in this regard as they never seem to quite get in on the heavy sugar.

In the light-heavyweight division, there's a Westerner named Leo Lomski, the Aberdeen Assassin, who has feathered his nest comfortably while performing as a contender to the throne occupied by Loughran. Lomski upset Tommy twice in the first round of one of their tilts and on that reputation he has been barnstorming all over the country, raking in the golden shekels. Lomski has little to lose. He's willing to take a chance and so Leo is making money while, if he were champion, he might be loafing.

Sid Terris is another lad who never reached the throne, but who registered with big earnings. This all happened, quite naturally, before Sid developed the horizontal habit. He isn't in such big demand now, but there was a time when Sid could write his own ticket and did. As a result he should have plenty of the world's goods.

Another old-timer among the lightweights who reaped a good harvest without becoming the champ is Charley White, of Chicago. Never quite reaching the pinnacle, White fattened his roll and retired from the ring.

Pete Latzo did considerably more business in the ring after he shook off the cares and worries he inherited with the welterweight title. It was then that he started to cash in.

If any of the little fellows attract a gate, Tony Canzoneri can be mentioned. Tony has been drawing good crowds ever since he was shorn of the featherweight crown and is still making plenty of money. In addition, Canzoneri is fighting better than when he was the boss of his division.

One could go on and on through the lists. Look at Young Stribling. He has never been what might be called "in the big money," but he has amassed a fortune in the eight meeting second-raters.

Champions often develop a "title complex." Contenders, or near-contenders, can fight as often as they please, having no title to

GROVER CLEVELAND ALEXAN-

By FRANK GETTY
(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, April 17.—The major league pennant races of 1929 have opened somewhat hesitantly.

As was the case a year ago, rain and cold prevented eastern engagements.

Only in the west and middle west were the big league flag contenders able to set out on the long 154-game grind.

Fans had several things of interest to consider, nevertheless, from yesterday's play.

Starting his nineteenth season in the majors, Grover Cleveland Alexander of the St. Louis Cardinals proved himself once more invincible in beating the Cincinnati Reds on their home turf, 5 to 2.

Another feature of this game was furnished by "Chick" Hafey, St. Louis outfielder, who has adopted glasses as a cure for eye-trouble. He belted out the only home run of the National League.

Rogers Hornsby, around whom so much attention centers this season, failed to make a hit. That perhaps was not entirely his fault, since he was walked three times. The Pirates beat the Cubs before a capacity crowd at Chicago, 4 to 3.

The major league debut of at least one newcomer was crowned with success when Earl Averill, expensive Cleveland outfielder, hit a homer in the first inning against Detroit in a game which the Indians finally won in 11 innings, 5 to 4.

Before the current season opened, a number of experts picked the St. Louis Browns, formerly regular second division occupants, as possible pennant winners, and the Browns opened up with everything they had, winning, 3 to 1, from the Chicago White Sox.

Leading hitters on the opening day were: Fonseca, Indians, .600; Walker, Cincinnati, .667; Metzler, White Sox, .667; Traynor, Pirates, .750; and Cuyler, Cubs, .600.

The attendance was gratifying considering the weather, more than 100,000 fans turning out at four major league parks. Half of these attended the Cub-Pirate game in Chicago.

Watching the Scoreboard

(By United Press)

Yesterday's Hero—"Old Pete," Grover Cleveland Alexander, shown by the record books to be starting his 19th major league season, who pitched the St. Louis Cardinals to a 5 to 2 victory over the Cincinnati Reds in the opening game, allowing but five hits.

Pie Traynor, captain of the Pittsburgh Pirates, supposedly suffering with injuries which should have kept him on the bench, led the attack whereby the Corsairs carried off the initial victory over the Chicago Cubs before 50,000 fans, 4 to 3.

Sam Gray, star hurler of the St. Louis Browns, who are conceded by experts to have their first pennant chance in history, pitched Dan Howley's club to a 3 to 1 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

After a ninth inning rally which tied the score, the Cleveland Indians won out over the Detroit Tigers, 5 to 4, in the 11th inning. The winning run scored on Carl Lind's double.

Four other scheduled opening games were washed out by rain.

Old Companions

One's delight in an elderberry bush overhanging the confused leafage of a hedgerow bank, as a more gladdening sight than the finest elms or fuchsias spreading leaf on the softest undulating turf, is an entirely unjustifiable preference to a nursery-gardener, or to any of those who are free from the weakness of any attachment that does not rest on a demonstrable superiority of qualities. And there is no better reason for preferring this elderberry bush than that it stirs an early memory: that it is no novelty . . . speaking to me merely through my present sensibilities to form and color, but the long companion of my existence, that wove itself into my joys when joys are vivid.—From "The Mill on the Floss," by George Eliot.

Just a Detail

In battle the duke of Wellington overlooked nothing. Baron von Neumann of the Austrian embassy at London in 1840 tells in his recently published diary of an account given by the Iron Duke of the Battle of Waterloo:

That "after the whole of the French infantry had been routed, all the artillery, consisting of 300 pieces of cannon, and all the baggage had been abandoned, the English army considered the battle ended, when the duke stopped the forward movement of the troops and said: 'The battle is not yet won. There is a corps of 10,000 cavalry still intact,' and they thereupon disposed of them."

Legion of Honor

The Legion d'Honneur in France is an order of merit, both military and civil. As at present organized, it consists of five classes—chevaliers, officers, commanders, grand officers and grand crosses. The resident of the republic is grand master. In ordinary circumstances 20 years of military, naval or civil service is necessary for eligibility to the rank by chevalier, and promotions can only be made after definite service in a lower rank. Extraordinary service admits to any rank. The word "chevalier" means "knight."

Spellbound

Ten-year-old Mary had won a scholarship, and was telling her mother about the papers.

The subject for essay had been, "How I spend my Saturday morning," and after discoursing on minding the baby, helping mother wash up, and so on, Mary ended with the amazing statement, "and then I play a game of chess with my brother."

"Chess! But you can't play chess!" "I know, I wanted to put dominoes, but I couldn't spell it."

Utilizing the Heat of Passion

The Barn Boss—Was there much trouble on the line about the cold cars?

The Conductor—Not much. It seemed warm enough for 'em. Every one who spoke to me about it was wet up over it.

Past Hurt

Mrs. Heideblader was attending her first football game. "Ch, isn't it awful," she cried, "Why, they will kill the poor boy underneath."

Mr. Favrou is survived by five children, Louis A. Favrou of Brainerd, two daughters, Mrs. Israel Potvin, Mrs. Henry Peters, Brainerd, Mrs. Archie Tangas, Oriska, N. D., and Mrs. Baxter of South Jacksonville, Fla.

Tailored and Formal

Afternoon Raincoats

In the new raincoats which the shops are showing for spring and resort wear there is a marked increase in the variety of styles and materials used. They are not unlike those prevailing in the smart separate coats and ensembles. Both tailored and the formal afternoon models are offered, strict attention being placed on the general finish, lines and modish effects. For instance, the excessively full back or awkward lengths are avoided, and collars no longer are large and bulky, or so small that they prove inadequate.

Some of the fabrics used are flat crepe, rodler linens and woolsens in modernistic designs; wool gabardines in colors other than the familiar putty, cotton crepe in prints and solid colors, wool cashmere and a new soft suede cloth in both light and dark shades. There are in addition several new models of moire, pongee silk, linen crash and a rippled fabric.

When the silk fabrics are used, greater liberty is taken with the designing, especially of such items as cuffs, collars, belts and pockets. The coats with inverted flaps in back, deep yokes and sleeves finished with extra straps for protection come mostly in the heavier materials.

Pockets are made as semioval, crescent or straight slits, bound in a contrasting color to match pipings used elsewhere. Many of the new coats are shown with some sort of belt, though a narrower one than heretofore. It extends usually just across the back and is finished with a fancy buckle made of a composition that matches the fabric.

Making Boxed Pillows

to Decorate Your Home

If interested in making boxed pillows, and in doing it well, it is suggested that you do not attempt to build up the foundation (though this may be done with layer after layer of cotton batting, if you are very ambitious) but that you purchase the squared down cushion ready-made. Then proceed as follows:

First trim down the piece that is to be the top, to the measurement of the pillow, allowing three-eighths inches for seaming on all edges; and cut another piece of equal size for the bottom.

Next, for the boxing, cut two strips for the length and two for the width, allowing three-eighths inches around all edges for seams. (Six pieces in all.)

Then baste the covered cording (made by yourself or purchased ready-made) around the top and bottom pieces of the cushion and sew the parts together. (This cording is seamed in, around four sides of the top and bottom, as the parts are joined.) Join cording at the corners, and your pillow is complete.—Detroit News.

Cooking Vegetables

Experiments in cooking at New York State College of Home Economics show the best results with green vegetables are obtained by dropping the vegetables into boiling water and cooking them in an open kettle for the shortest possible time.

Happiness

Those who have the most of happiness think the least about it. But in thinking about and in doing their duty happiness comes—because the heart and mind are occupied with earnest thought and touch at a thousand points the beautiful and sublime realities of the universe.—William Makepeace Thackeray.

For a soapy, sudsy bath—use Melo

Like to have plenty of suds when you're bathing? Then don't bathe in hard water—city water as it comes from the faucet. Soap combines with the hard water, and forms a dirty ring around the edge of the tub. That's scum. And that's certainly not pleasant.

Hard water can be made soft. Just put Melo in the water and you have a very remarkable cleaner, with or without soap. Then watch the soap lather! Then watch the suds come! Then watch the scum go! Have you discovered how much more effective Melo makes soap? Get three cans today at your grocer's, for the kitchen, the laundry and the bathroom.

Watch Tongue For Signs of Illness

Your tongue is nothing more than the upper end of your stomach and intestines. It is the first thing your doctor looks at. It tells at a glance the condition of your digestive system—and physicians say that 90 per cent of all sicknesses start with stomach and bowel trouble.

A white or yellowish coating on your tongue is a danger signal of those digestive disorders. It tells you why the least exertion tires you out; why you have pains in the bowels, gas, sour stomach, dizzy spells.

And it's a sign you need Tanlac. This good old reliable medicine has helped thousands who were physical wrecks. See how the first bottle helps you.

Tanlac contains no mineral drugs; it is made of barks, herbs and roots—nature's own medicines for the sick. Get a bottle from your druggist today. Your money back if it doesn't help you.

Miss Inga and Gladys Nelson called at Dullum's Sunday.

The Ed Norgard family expects to move to Riverton soon. Mr. Norgard is employed in the mine there.

About 40 attended the first Sunday school meeting. Lets help the good movement along.

No more dances for a time in Dullum's hall until roads are better. Then remember that a public dance cannot be had without quite an expense. Do not expect the other fellow to pay for your evening. The "cop" is there mainly to watch the bystander who doesn't wish to contribute to the dance. If you attend a show you expect to pay for your entertainment.

SAUK CENTER MARSHAL FOUND DEAD IN JAIL

BULLET WOUND IN HEAD, BODY OF G. F. ROSENBERGER DISCOVERED BY WIFE

BECAME ALARMED AT LENGTHY ABSENCE FROM HIS HOME

Sauk Center, Minn., April 17.—(UP)—G. F. Rosenberger, Sauk Center marshal, was found dead in the city jail today, a bullet wound in his head.

The body was found by Mrs. Rosen-berger who, alarmed at the absence from home of her husband, went to the jail to investigate.

Since the gun with which the marshal was shot was not at once found it was assumed that the death was not a suicide.

It was believed, however, that the marshal had been shot by his own gun or one of a similar calibre.

Three strangers, described as roughly dressed, who stopped here early today for gasoline, were sought for questioning.

Cyril Bourassa Says It Would Be Better to Junk His Car Than Buy License

JUDGE FINES HIM $5

Defendant Who Pleads Guilty Revamped Old Ford Into Sawing Machine Rig

Cyril Bourassa was late for work this morning so he had his son take his Ford which has been revamped into a saw rig and drive him to his place of occupation.

Returning home the car was recognized by Chief of Police Thomas J. Templeton as being without a license. In municipal court this morning Mr. Bourassa paid a fine of $5 for failure to have license plates on his car. He is the first offender arraigned before Judge J. H. Warner on this charge.

When requested by Judge Warner what his excuse was Mr. Bourassa stated that he did not use his car for any other reason but for wood sawing and believed that he did not require a license.

Judge Warner informed him that a vehicle driven by its own power requires a license whether it be a Rolls Royce or a Ford converted into a saw rig.

Rather than pay for a license which costs more than the car is worth Mr. Bourassa stated that he would junk it.

ALL TROUT CAUGHT MUST BE RETAINED

Scientists Claim That Trout Once Touched by Human Cannot Live Long

SEASON OPEN TO AUGUST 15

Swollen Streams Make Fishing Poor; Limit of One Day, 15 Trout

Teenie weenie trout just haven't got a chance this season.

The game laws governing the trout season, April 15 to August 15 state that all trout caught by angling regardless of size shall be retained in possession.

But in making such a law those in the know were perfectly within their rights for pisciculturists maintain that a trout once touched by a human being cannot live long, that a trout is the most delicate of fish and that once bruised the silk like covering of the trout can never heal.

Trout fishermen may not catch more than 15 in one day or have more than 20 pounds in their possession at any one time.

Early season trout anglers report fishing poor due to the swollen streams by rains and spring water.

ROSENMEIER BILL PASSED

WOULD REFUND COUNTY HIGHWAY REIMBURSEMENT BONDS

St. Paul, April 17.—(UP)—The Minnesota house today passed the so-called Rosenmeier bill plan for refunding the county highway reimbursement bonds which fall due in the years 1929, 1930, 1931 and 1932.

The bill now goes to the senate for concurrence in amendments made by the house.

As recommended early in the session by Senator Chris Rosenmeier, Little Falls, and recently approved by Governor Theodore Christianson and Highway Commissioner C. M. Babcock, the bill provides for the refunding of bonds in 1929 and 1930 by issuance of state bonds and of those in 1931 and 1932 out of the highway sinking fund.

Interest due this year on bonds for all four years would be also taken from the sinking fund.

Under this plan was it estimated that some $2,000,000 would be released for the trunk highway construction program this year, making a total of $8,785,000 including federal aid, the gasoline tax and the motor vehicle tax.

Approximately $11,400,000 would thus be available for highway construction work in each of the next three years.

It was assumed that the senate would also approve the plan. The vote was 89 to 33.

WAIT 10 HOURS IN WOODS TO ARREST 3 FOR HAVING PIKE

Deputy Game Wardens A. P. Cardle, Harlan Weber, and Ed. Hall are staunch believers in the old adage that "the patient will receive their reward."

From 7 p. m. Saturday to 5 a. m. Sunday the three upholders of the law waited for their quarry in the woods north of Cross Lake near Daggett Brook and won out over the cold by arresting three on charges of taking pike out of season.

Monday afternoon, Albin Gronquist and Benjamin Schwartz, Brainerd, pleaded guilty to having four pike in their possession and were fined $10 and costs each by Judge J. H. Warner.

The third member of the party, Adolph Dennis pleaded not guilty. The hearing was set for next Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock in municipal court.

In addition to the pike the party had 64 suckers in their possession. One of the pike weighed ten pounds.

Dr. R. A. Beard, pastor of the First Congregational church of Fargo more than 28 years, tendered his resignation Sunday, effective September 1, according to word reaching here today. Dr. Beard will then have served 51 years as pastor in the Congregational church.

He entered the ministry at Brainerd, Minn., in 1879, having previously been a lawyer. He served as pastor at Brainerd from 1879 to 1882, going to Fargo in the latter year and serving as pastor there until 1885. He then served as state superintendent of the home missions of the Congregational church for the state of Washington until 1891, when he became president of Fargo College, serving in that position until 1894.

He next moved to Nashua, N. H., serving as pastor of the Congregational church there from 1879 to 1903, when he became secretary of the Congregational Home Mission Society, serving in that capacity until 1906. He returned to Fargo that year.

He announced he will not retire from the ministry but expects to be a pastor at large of the Congregational church.

OFFENDER FINED

Cyril Bourassa Says It Would Be Better to Junk His Car Than Buy License

JUDGE FINES HIM $5

Defendant Who Pleads Guilty Revamped Old Ford Into Sawing Machine Rig

Cyril Bourassa was late for work this morning so he had his son take his Ford which has been revamped into a saw rig and drive him to his place of occupation.

Returning home the car was recognized by Chief of Police Thomas J. Templeton as being without a license.

In municipal court this morning Mr. Bourassa paid a fine of $5 for failure to have license plates on his car. He is the first offender arraigned before Judge J. H. Warner on this charge.

When requested by Judge Warner what his excuse was Mr. Bourassa stated that he did not use his car for any other reason but for wood sawing and believed that he did not require a license.

Judge Warner informed him that a vehicle driven by its own power requires a license whether it be a Rolls Royce or a Ford converted into a saw rig.

Rather than pay for a license which costs more than the car is worth Mr. Bourassa stated that he would junk it.

ALL TROUT CAUGHT MUST BE RETAINED

Scientists Claim That Trout Once Touched by Human Cannot Live Long

SEASON OPEN TO AUGUST 15

Swollen Streams Make Fishing Poor; Limit of One Day, 15 Trout

Teenie weenie trout just haven't got a chance this season.

The game laws governing the trout season, April 15 to August 15 state that all trout caught by angling regardless of size shall be retained in possession.

But in making such a law those in the know were perfectly within their rights for pisciculturists maintain that a trout once touched by a human being cannot live long, that a trout is the most delicate of fish and that once bruised the silk like covering of the trout can never heal.

Trout fishermen may not catch more than 15 in one day or have more than 20 pounds in their possession at any one time.

Early season trout anglers report fishing poor due to the swollen streams by rains and spring water.

ROSENMEIER

BILL PASSED

WOULD REFUND COUNTY HIGHWAY REIMBURSEMENT BONDS

St. Paul, April 17.—(UP)—The Minnesota house today passed the so-called Rosenmeier bill plan for refunding the county highway reimbursement bonds which fall due in the years 1929, 1930, 1931 and 1932.

The bill now goes to the senate for concurrence in amendments made by the house.

As recommended early in the session by Senator Chris. Rosenmeier, Little Falls, and recently approved by Governor Theodore Christianson and Highway Commissioner C. M. Babcock, the bill provides for the refunding of bonds in 1929 and 1930 by issuance of state bonds and of those in 1931 and 1932 out of the highway sinking fund.

Interest due this year on bonds for all four years would be also taken from the sinking fund.

Under this plan was it estimated that some $2,000,000 would be released for the trunk highway construction program this year, making a total of $8,785,000 including federal aid, the gasoline tax and the motor vehicle tax.

Approximately $11,400,000 would thus be available for highway construction work in each of the next three years.

It was assumed that the senate would also approve the plan. The vote was 89 to 33.

WAIT 10 HOURS IN WOODS TO ARREST 3 FOR HAVING PIKE

Deputy Game Wardens A. P. Cardle, Harlan Weber, and Ed. Hall are staunch believers in the old adage that "the patient will receive their reward."

From 7 p. m. Saturday to 5 a. m. Sunday the three upholders of the law waited for their quarry in the woods north of Cross Lake near Daggert Brook and won out over the cold by arresting three on charges of taking pike out of season.

Monday afternoon, Albin Gronquist and Benjamin Schwartz, Brainerd, pleaded guilty to having four pike in their possession and were fined $10 and costs each by Judge J. H. Warner.

The third member of the party, Adolph Dennis pleaded not guilty. The hearing was set for next Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock in municipal court.

In addition to the pike the party had 64 suckers in their possession. One of the pike weighed ten pounds.

CHAPTER LXXXI.

Sheba hated her for the wrong she had done to Tina. . . . Was Sheba really a conjure woman?

Another voodoo story told itself to her, as if Sheba's voice spoke over some radio from the past:

"And once there was a girl that stole another woman's man. The conjure woman put a spell on her. . . . She turned spotted like as if she had the leprosy. Her meat dropped often, her bones. . . . And when she was dying they said her soul run outen the room like a rat!"

She threw the covers off and started to spring out of bed. Then she cowered back again. What if a rat were on the floor? . . .

When Dan came in she was nervous and wide-eyed.

"Dan, will you call Mother? I want to speak to her."

"Better wait till morning. Go to sleep now."

"No, I want to see her now, please."

"All right," he said indulgently, and went to send Irene in.

"What is it, Lilith?" she asked. "I'm frightened. I just wanted to see you."

"Don't be nervous, child. What could frighten you, when you are safe at home?"

"I've been lying here thinking. . . . It wasn't fair to Tina for me to come home."

Irene laid a cool hand on her fevered forehead. "Don't think tonight, Lilith. Just go to sleep, and tomorrow you'll feel better."

The girl sat upright and gazed at her. "I've been thinking that I never was fair to anybody in my life! I've—I've betrayed everybody who ever loved me!"

She shuddered as the mother's arms enfolding her. "There, there, dear, you're tired. You mustn't let yourself get excited."

Lilith leaned her head against that strengthening shoulder for a moment, then she pushed her away. "Mother!" she burst out, her cheeks burning, her eyes almost black, their pupils were so dilated. "I—I've got to tell Father and Dan the truth!"

"No, no!"

"I must, I must! I can't go on living this lie!"

Irene sat down beside her and gathered her close in her arms. "Lilith, you don't want to bring any needless heartbreak to anyone, do you?"

"No."

"Don't you see how cruel it would be to shatter their faith in you? And what mortal good could that do now? None—none at all."

"But it's so hard to live a lie, to—"

"The voice trailed off in a sob."

"Maybe that's part of your penalty, my child. But I can't bear to have your father's heart broken. And think what it would mean to Dan—and to the little baby that's coming to you both. He must believe in his mother!"

The silken form was shaken by sobs. "But I thought you and Father believed in confessing your sins!"

"To God, yes. To human beings when confession would help, not hurt. But we haven't got the right to stab with a useless confession, any more than with a knife."

"But—what can I do?"

"You must do the best you can to make your husband and your child happy. Build up their faith in you—don't tear it down."

She gave a shuddering moan. "Dan loves you so much," said the mother.

"Yes, yes." The brilliant eyes stared at her. "It scares me to think of it. His love is like a white fire. He worships me! He would die to save me pain."

"Don't you see, then, that you mustn't hurt him?"

"It would break his heart to know the truth. But even so, he would follow me to the world's end."

"Yes, some loves are—deathless," Irene murmured.

"Which is worse—not to marry the man you love or to be married to one you don't love?"

Lilith grew quieter, clasped in those protective arms. At last she faltered, "I want to ask Tina to forgive me."

"Tomorrow, dear."

"Yes, right now. I can't sleep till I ask her. The eyes were unutterably brilliant, the body trembling with overwrought nerves."

"All right, then, if you wish."

Irene's few whispered words of pleading to Tina brought her in her rose-colored negligee to Lilith's room.

"Tina," said Lilith, sitting up, "I can't sleep under this roof—or anywhere else—till you forgive me!"

The mother's heart almost stood still, waiting for the answer. At last Tina said slowly, "I forgive you."

"Do you—truly?"

Tina nodded. "Really, truly," she said, as she used to when the two were little girls. Then she swiftly crossed the room, put her arms about her sister and kissed her.

The two clung together for an instant, while tears blinded the mother's eyes. Then Tina relaxed her clasp and fled back to her room.

Irene came to the bed. "Now, Lilith, you must lie down and rest."

"Do you see anything—there by the door?"

She glanced around. "No, nothing."

"Do you smell anything burning?" The gold head turned to one side.

Irene sniffed experimentally. "Not a thing. But we'll smell Sheba's breakfast in a little while, if we don't get some sleep. Good night now, and pleasant dreams."

It was perhaps two or three hours later when Irene was awakened by a tap on her door, and Dan's voice: "I wish you'd come in and see what you can do with Lilith."

"What's the trouble?" she asked in alarm, through a slit in the door. "I don't know. She's not been able to sleep—been in a nervous state, crying and shivering."

"Overturned by the trip," she said. "I'll be there in a minute."

She flung on her kimono and reached for her slippers. "Guinn, call Will Lundy to come over and give her a sleeping powder. She mustn't be nervous now."

By the time the doctor reached the house Lilith was in a state of hysteria, sobbing, shaking convulsively and babbling incoherently: "A soufflé of moonbeams and music." "The heart of the labyrinth." "Time speeds away so fast."

"This is labor," he said curtly. "Call the hospital and tell them to send me the two best nurses."

"Q" Followed by "U" In English "q" is always followed by "u." You cannot find a regular English word which contains "q" and which does not also contain "u." So far as I have been able to learn no authority has ever been able to explain just why this is so. Apparently "q" never was entitled to be regarded as a complete letter.

CHAPTER LXXXI.

SHEBA hated her for the wrong she had done to Tina. . . . Was Sheba really a conjure woman?

Another voodoo story told itself to her, as if Sheba's voice spoke over some radio from the past:

"And once there was a girl that stole another woman's man. The conjure woman put a spell on her. . . . She turned spotted like as if she had the leprosy. Her meat dropped often, her bones. . . . And when she was dying, they seed her soul run outen the room like a rat!"

She threw the covers off and started to spring out of bed. Then she cowered back again. What if a rat were on the floor? . . .

When Dan came in she was nervous and wide eyed.

"Dan, will you call Mother? I want to speak to her."

"Better wait till morning. Go to sleep now."

"No. I want to see her now, please."

"All right," he said indulgently, and went to send Irene in.

"What is it, Lilith?" she asked.

"I'm frightened. I just wanted to see you."

"Don't be nervous, child. What could frighten you, when you are safe at home?"

"I've been lying here thinking. . . . It—it wasn't fair to Tina for me to come home?"

Irene laid a cool hand on her fevered forehead. "Don't think tonight, Lilith. Just go to sleep, and tomorrow you'll feel better."

The girl sat upright and gazed at her. "I've been thinking that I never was fair to anybody in my life! I've—I've betrayed everybody who ever loved me!"

She shuddered as the mother's arms enfolding her. "There, there, dear, you're tired. You mustn't let yourself get excited."

Lilith leaned her head against that strengthening shoulder for a moment, then she pushed her away.

"Mother!" she burst out, her cheeks burning, her eyes almost black, their pupils were so dilated.

"I—I've got to tell Father and Dan the truth!"

"No, no!"

"I must, I must! I can't go on living this lie!"

Irene sat down beside her and gathered her close in her arms. "Lilith, you don't want to bring any needless heartbreak to anyone, do you?"

"No."

"Don't you see how cruel it would be to shatter their faith in you? And what mortal good could that do now? None—none at all."

"But it's so hard to live a lie, to— The voice trailed off in a sob."

"Maybe that's part of your penalty, my child. But I can't bear to have your father's heart broken. And think what it would mean to Dan—and to the little baby that's coming to you both. He must believe in his mother!"

The silken form was shaken by sobs. "But I thought you and Father believed in confessing your sins!"

"To God, yes. To human beings when confession would help, not hurt. But we haven't got the right to stab with a useless confession, any more than with a knife."

"But—what can I do?"

"You must do the best you can to make your husband and your child happy. Build up their faith in you—don't tear it down."

She gave a shuddering moan. "Dan loves you so much," said the mother.

"Yes, yes." The brilliant eyes stared at her. "It scares me to think of it. His love is like a white fire. He worships me! He would die to save me pain."

"Don't you see, then, that you mustn't hurt him?"

"It would break his heart to know the truth. But even so, he would—follow me to the world's end."

"Which is worse—not to marry the man you love or to be married to one you don't love?"

Lilith grew quieter, clasped in those protective arms. At last she faltered, "I want to ask Tina to forgive me."

"Tomorrow, dear."

"No, right now. I can't sleep till I ask her. The eyes were unnaturally brilliant, the body trembling with overwrought nerves."

"All right, then, if you wish."

Irene's few whispered words of pleading to Tina brought her in her rose-colored negligee to Lilith's room.

"Tina," said Lilith, sitting up-right, "I can't sleep until you forgive me!"

The mother's heart almost stood still, waiting for the answer. At last Tina said slowly, "I forgive you."

"Do you—truly?"

Tina nodded. "Really, truly," she said, as she used to when the two were little girls. Then she swiftly crossed the room, put her arms about her sister and kissed her.

The two clung together for an instant, while tears blinded the mother's eyes. Then Tina relaxed her clasp and fled back to her room.

Irene came to the bed. "Now, Lilith, you must lie down and rest."

"Do you see anything—there by the door?"

She glanced around. "No nothing."

"Do you smell anything burning?" The gold head turned to one side.

Irene sniffed experimentally. "Not a thing. But we'll smell Sheba's breakfast in a little while, if we don't get some sleep. Good night now, and pleasant dreams."

It was perhaps two or three hours later when Irene was awakened by a tap on her door, and Dan's voice: "I wish you'd come in and see what you can do with Lilith."

"What's the trouble?" she asked in alarm, through a slit in the door.

"I don't know. She's not been able to sleep—been in a nervous state, crying and shivering."

"Overtired by the trip," she said. "I'll be there in a minute."

She flung on her kimono and reached for her slippers. "Guinn, call Will Lundy to come over and give her a sleeping powder. She mustn't be nervous now."

By the time the doctor reached the house Lilith was in a state of hysteria, sobbing, shaking convulsively and babbling incoherent things: "A soufflé of moonbeams and music." "The heart of the labyrinth." "Time speeds away so fast."

"Q" Followed by "U"

In English "q" is always followed by "u." You cannot find a regular English word which contains "q" and which does not also contain "u." So far as I have been able to learn, no authority has ever been able to explain just why this is so. Apparently "q" never was entitled to be regarded as a complete letter.
